Fun with Watercolours at ICG

Thursday, 22nd May , 2014

“Watercolours are very friendly in nature and all age groups can easily work using this medium” says Artist Vatsala Kamat Hede, who recently conducted a workshop on watercolours at ICG. The purpose of the three day workshop was to interact with the participants and allow them to be free in painting, using water color medium. The participants were introduced to basic techniques of using watercolour medium.

Ms. Kamat, a Fine Artist, Art Teacher and Personal Art Mentor, says that the workshop received a warm response from children and adults alike and that the participants enjoyed working using the medium and made paintings of their choice such as landscapes, still life, etc.

Ms. Kamat also held Basic Art Program at ICG since March 2014, where she introduced participants to various basic art techniques such as strokes, shading, use of water colours, poster colours and 2D designs.
